

Throughout the 1984 and 1985 seasons, as a major league groundskeeper, I was granted the pleasure of playing with major league baseball players. I was able to play catch, hit, sit in the bullpen and eat with professional athletes. In Dr. Foreman's class I also learned the definition of a professional is one who is paid for what they do, and I did get paid. I had caught the dream of my youth. This book is about the experiences and the joy of living the dream.
